Does anyone know how? Thank you. A: There are 2 issues here: one with keeping aspect-ratio and one with keeping width always 100%. For keeping aspect-ratio, you could use CSS3 media queries. But width 100% is always a concern for most browsers. It is no easy task for all browser to play 100% width video, some browsers even don't support it, that's why you need to use JS method to keep 100% width. The code for this could be like this: var video = document.querySelector('video'); function resizeVideo() { video.width = video.offsetWidth; video.height =

video.offsetHeight; } function init() {
    resizeVideo();
video.addEventListener('loadedmetadata',
    resizeVideo);
    video.addEventListener('progress',
    resizeVideo);
video.addEventListener('timeupdate',
    resizeVideo);
    video.addEventListener('seeking',
    resizeVideo); } 6d1f23a050
